

Chrome Angels 2nd Annual Luau for Charity

By Carolina Dave and Kim

Since we ride with the Central Florida biker community and we read DBI, we're happy to be part of the Dixie Biker family. In spite of the mental abuse and low pay Monk's promising, we're looking forward to covering the events and meetin' more of y'all! Here's the first of many.

There was lots going on in our area during July, including Free Riders annual 4th of July Poker Run, a benefit for 4-year old Jessie Daughtery, the Randy Burroughs Memorial Run, and others. There was lots to cover, and too little time. Unfortunately, we didn't get to cover as much as we'd like, but fortunately for us, we did get in a vacation. We headed out to Vegas early in the month, visited the the Grand Canyon, absolutely awesome, and had a great time with the kids. We got back and had tons of work and obligations waiting for us.

Finally, things settled down some and we were able to get out and get in some riding. We went to the Luau Poker

Luau for Charity

Run put on by the Chrome Angels Chapter of Women in the Wind. This annual event benefits local women and children's charities. Kim's a member of the Chrome Angels, and helped work the event.

The run started at Benchwarmer's in Winter Garden, wound through the hills and back roads of Lake County to Dizzy's Lounge in Tavares, made stops in Sorrento and Sanford, and then ended up at Handlebar & Grille in Longwood. All the stops were biker-friendly, and it was a nice 80-mile run. The turnout was good, just over 100 people, and most of them managed to outrun the afternoon storms. The Handlebar and Grille served up some awesome food: Teriyaki wings, fried rice, veggies, and banana pudding. The Cotton Davis Band was great, and kept the place rockin' into the wee hours.

Donation for the run was $10 per rider and covered your poker hand and lunch. You could also get raffle tickets for lots of cool prizes and 50/50 tickets. You got arm-to-arm tickets for $10, now that's a pretty good deal. There were prizes for best-dressed luau attire, won by Leeca Ramirez and, surprise, me. (below middle, with SunDancer). I think my leafy "herb" lei was the hit - everyone wanted to smoke it. There were some really cool-dressed people, so I was really surprised. There was a masseuse on hand, and best and worst poker hand. They also gave a prize for the group with the most members - the U.S. Military Vets MC (below) won an all-u-can-eat dinner for ten. There was a special drawing for a diamond and tanzanite necklace worth $2000. Doug won that, and I
